LPGA pro says U.S. Open is 'learning op' for women

By SUSAN BECK

ADVICE TO the ladies following the greatest men golfers in the world during the U. S. Open at Pebble Beach: Always watch from behind.

Professional golfer Janet Coles laughs uproariously as she offers this perhaps slightly sexist instruction.

Humor is definitely one of Coles' best attributes. That, along with her powerhouse swing that made her one of the top 30 all-time money winners in the Ladies Professional Golf Association.

The U. S. Open starts next week, and Coles thinks it's the perfect tournament for women to learn something about the game. She should know.

Coles considers her greatest victory coming in fourth at the U.S. Women's Open Championship at the Baltusrol Golf Club in New Jersey, the same course where Jack Nicklaus won the 1980 U.S. Open.

She also scored another four tour victories, and played in 15 U. S. Opens. All joking aside, she knows what she's doing.

Currently she's the golf teaching pro at Rancho Canada Golf Club in Carmel Valley.

"The U. S. Open equalizes all the players. The course is longer, the fairway is extremely narrow, the rough is deeper, and the greens are really fast. Basically, the tournament forces the players to concentrate on the short game, finesse, and accuracy. Men usually play an aggressive power and distance game, but at the Open the game is conservative," she explained.

Crowning a champ

"The ambience that the U.S. Open creates is very different from other tournaments. It's quieter, the athletes are more serious and intense. The U.S. Golf Association is coming to Pebble Beach to crown a champion, and that's it. That's the mood."

She said that the most important thing about the tournament is that the players will be playing for pars. The short game comes into play. "There will be 100-yard shots and in. A lot of pitching, chipping, putting, and sand shots to the hole."

JANET COLES

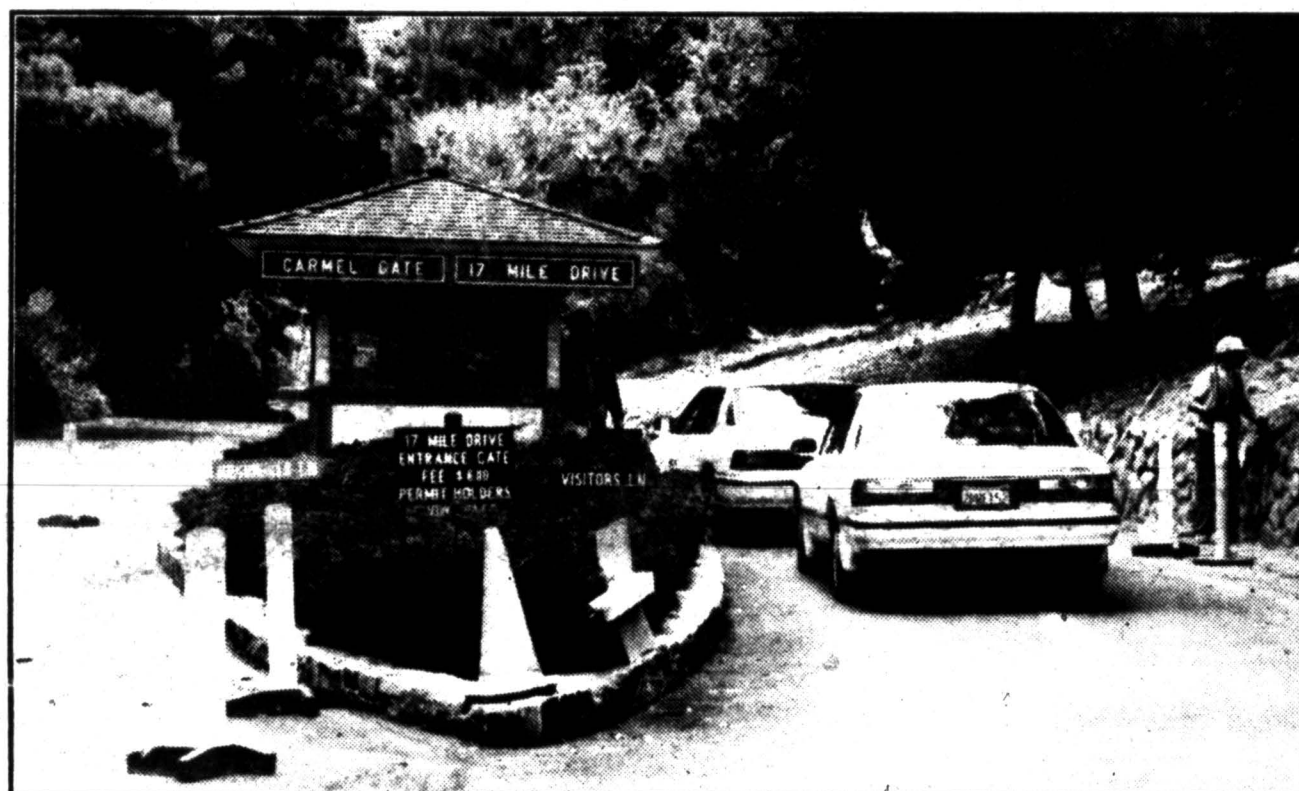

"Women can relate to the short game. Men may hit the ball far, but they still have to know the short shots that women usually hit. The person who wins this tournament will probably have shot a couple of double bogies," said Coles.

Her serious advice to women is to plan a strategy for the tournament. Get the starting times, pick out four players you want to see, and select your place to stand. Coles' recommendation for positioning is either the sixth, seventh, or eighth holes.

She suggests that women who want to study the way men execute the short game watch the players during practice sessions.

"Watch a player's tempo, the time and rhythm of the swing. For this, Freddy Couples, Tom Purtzer, and Payne Stewart are the guys to watch. For more mechanical golfers, Tom Kite, Tom Watson, and

CARMEL GATE TO (FINALLY) OPEN FOR U.S. OPEN

Traffic tips

THE USUAL routine of driving from here to there on the Monterey Peninsula won't be the same next week when the U.S. Open comes to Pebble Beach.

So, fore-warned, is fore-armed:

- Local residents should avoid Highway 1 from 6 a.m. to 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. throughout U.S. Open week (June 15-21).
- Use alternate routes and avoid congestion at the Highway 1 entrance to 17-Mile Drive by using the Carmel, Country Club and Congress Ave. gates.
- 17-Mile Drive will be closed to visitor traffic from June 15-22.
- For those attending the Championship, plan on arriving early and carpool if you can.
- All parking will be within Del Monte Forest. Shuttle busses will transport spectators from all parking areas to the golf course.

Insider's tip: There will be an admission point on the 11th fairway, right inside the Carmel Gate for pedestrian traffic. In other words, Carmel residents and their guests can conveniently walk to the course.

Rules of the game

PEOPLE ATTENDING the U.S. Open Championship next week at Pebble Beach will be in the presence of the best golfers in the world. To insure optimum conditions for playing and viewing throughout the week the U.S. Golf Association has provided the following spectator's guide.

- No cameras are allowed on the course during Championship play.
- Cellular telephones are not allowed.
- The wearing of spiked shoes is prohibited.
- Children's strollers are discouraged, as are children too young to walk.
- Except for doctors, spectators are not allowed to carry pagers.
- Autographs are permitted only in the designated area at the contestant driving range.

Cameras, coolers, folding chairs and other prohibited items will be checked at the main information booth at the Peter Hay Golf Course and can be retrieved after play.

town at the northern border.

And two, that the city must not go after any land acquisitions that would further Carmel's existing bond debts.

Thus, the idea of "creative thinking" would be the key, since the least imaginative approach of simply buying the land with community bond financing was out of the question from the outset.

Many ideas would be pursued.

News analysis: Pescadero

By PAUL WOLF

SHORTLY AFTER the preservation of Pescadero Canyon leapt into the community's consciousness this spring, the five members of the Carmel City Council — who tend to spend much of their time divided — agreed on two things.

One, that every effort must be made to prevent or greatly limit development on three vacant lots in that sensitive area of

Special report: libraries

By PAUL WOLF

FOLLOWING THE Monterey Public Library's decision to charge its out-of-town patrons $50 a year, the city-run libraries of Carmel and Pacific Grove expect they will have to serve more county patrons than ever.

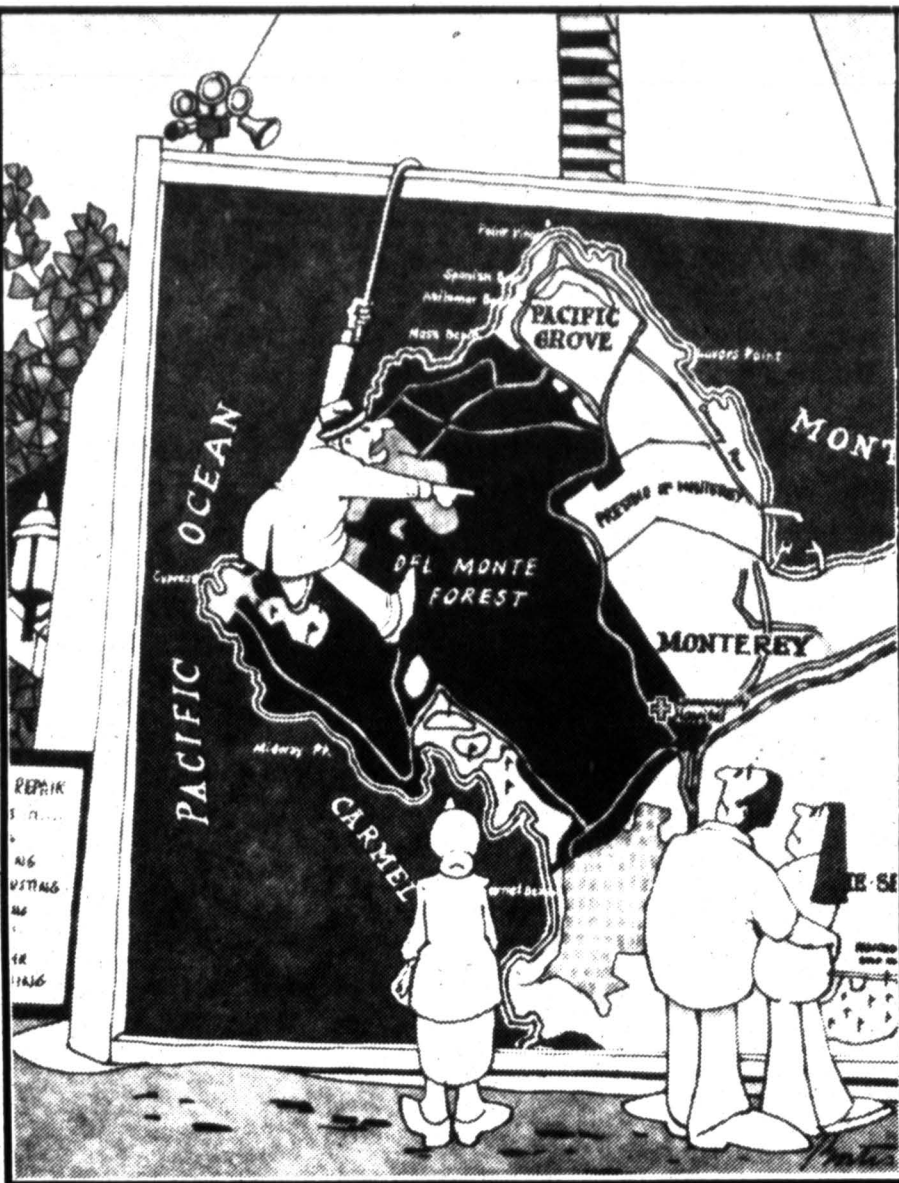

Neither Margaret Pelikan nor Bobbie Morrison, the library directors in Carmel and Pacific Grove respectively, could provide specific estimates regarding how many new patrons — defectors from Monterey — they should expect.

But one thing was clear: the decision by the Monterey library will only add to their already considerable problems.

Some of those problems stem from the fact that these two city libraries — each with about 1,200 patrons — received the bad news earlier in the year that the county

Dear Editor:

Sell Old Del Monte?

After all the community has done for the Pebble Beach Co., they should donate it to the county.

If the county ran it like Santa Teresa in San Jose, the present fair-rate structure and excellent conditioning could be maintained. At the present time, it is the championship layout us duffers can afford!

What's your sign?

Dear Editor:

Did you know that there is a lady named Molly working for the City of Carmel, who amongst other things rides around and decides whose real estate signs are legal? That's right. Her title is Code Compliance Officer.

Now, I have been doing business in Carmel, never had a sign problem before. Molly calls my secretary and sarcastically says that she's holding a sign with my own name on it, which was removed from private property and that I can have it back for a $15 hostage fee. That should teach me not to do it again. (shame on me) My crime-having a four-inch rider with my name on it in addition to another smaller rider saying "shown by appointment only."

Does it sound like a violation of my first amendment rights under free speech? I thought so. So when asked what she would do if the sign ordinance was interpreted differently. Her retort: "I just do what I'm told to do." Sounds kind of scary. Isn't that what the accused said at the Nuremberg trials?

Do we really need a Code Compliance Officer in this little Hamlet?

About the $15 hostage money, I told her to keep it. Sign only cost me $12.50.

Democracy to dictatorship

Dear Editor:

Over three decades ago I attended a lecture given by a group neither political or racist. What disturbed me most were their feelings that certain factions in our country wished to overthrow our form of government. Their method would be to create enough unrest that people would lose confidence in our police so police authority would be reduced and they could no longer effectively do their job. Federal troops would be called in to do police work.

When such unrest occurred in enough areas, a White Knight would appear and take charge. Thus would start the process from democracy to dictatorship. All agitators would soon disappear; since dictatorship cannot thrive on dissent, once it has served its purpose.

Think about this. We spend millions on social programs in urban areas. Is it well spent? Who truly benefits? How much lines the coffers and pockets of the endless agencies and leaders who speak for and control this army of the furious impoverished?

I don't believe the riots we are witnessing are all that spontaneous. Someone is lighting the match. When they say this is not the end, they are correct; unless, we, the people, take back our government, and our elected politicians start govern-

Editorial

A quiet burning

THE NEWS that Monterey's public library intends to charge its out-of-town patrons a $50 yearly fee is disconcerting.

Not only does this inhospitable gesture signal a foul weather warning, but it places its neighboring libraries — in Carmel and Pacific Grove — in a delicate position.

As you will read in The Pine Cone this week, Monterey's action causes two major ripples at Harrison Memorial Library and Pacific Grove Public Library.

First, will there be an exodus of out-of-town patrons from Monterey, and what impact will that have on Carmel and Pacific Grove? Second, will Carmel and Pacific Grove be forced to follow suit and impose similar fees on their out-of-town patrons?

For Carmel and Pacific Grove, these are serious questions, but there is another — underlying — issue at stake here. And that is the basic right of people — no matter what their financial condition — to enjoy unhindered access to society's receptacles of information and knowledge.

At the least, a $50 fee pits the privileged against the unprivileged, and perpetuates the myth that our society is wealthy enough — at every strata — to support a library system on fees instead of taxes.

If allowed, this kind of shift from everyone who passes through the turnstile at Monterey's public library being an equal cross section of our society to being an elite minority.

For the last 20 years, or since the passage of Prop. 13, there has been a constant eroding of financial support for the cultural elements of our society. It's like water dripping on granite; the effect is imperceptible day by day, but ultimately it is totally destructive.

It's our fervent hope that Monterey would reconsider and that Carmel and Pacific Grove will withstand such an insidious idea that it is acceptable to exclude any segment of our community from a library's asiles because it can't afford the fee.

ing instead of running scared because a small percentage of our population makes the biggest noises.

The police need our support. We pay them to enforce the law. They should not have to fear harassment and lawsuits from every group or interested minority that involves itself in pursuit of its own agenda; whether it's a majority opinion or not. It is not right that we condemn our police every time a person they contact, through some law infraction, suffers injury.

Also, let's beware of the White Knight who appears with rosy promises, when our elected officials are at such a low ebb of confidence. It is time for our Silent Majority to wake up and voice their desires, or this scenario will occur sooner than we think. Remember the quote, "Those who ignore history are doomed to repeat it."

Dead economy!

Dear Editor:

I was just so pleased to learn that our president is thinking about lowering air pollution standards to help improve the economy.

It makes you wonder if Mr. Bush realizes what kind of an economy we will have if everybody is dead! Well, I suppose that will help morticians and crematorium operators (but that would probably make more air pollution).

I think I may help the economy and improve the air with this compromise solution:

Make President Bush learn to inhale very, very deeply. After all, almost everyone knows that President Bush sucks a lot already, he just needs to learn to suck more.

Terasawa, 14, has won the CMS science competition for the last three years. This year her experiment focused on how the conductivity of water changes as temperature, voltage, and the number of electrolytes is altered.

Croll-Donahoe, 13, conducted an experiment using the household items mentioned in the article. She found that talcum powder was most effective in repelling ants, followed by cayenne pepper, Vaseline, lemon, and cream of tartar, respectively. (Scott Brearton photo.)

Did Rio Park throw a knockout punch at Pescadero?

One of the property owners in Carmel's portion of Pescadero Canyon has given a land-swapping proposal about a "50-50 chance." Further, the city still has open to it possible zoning changes that could keep any new homes built to the most modest scale.

With hopes high for preserving the canyon but options limited, a couple of questions are the focus of debate: Did the controversial purchase of the Hodges property (now Rio Park) two years ago handcuff the city's ability to make future acquisitions? Did buying Rio Park, in effect, count out buying something else?

"Priority list"

"We should have sat down and made a priority list," said Councilman Phil Coniglio, who was elected to the council in April.

Coniglio was a critic of the Rio Park purchase from the start, contending, for starters, that the $1.75 million price was excessive.

"I would have rather gone for Pescadero Canyon over Rio Park, if I had a choice," he added.

Noel Mapstead, who is leading the Friends of Pescadero Canyon in a battle to block development in the canyon, noted there were some good reasons for buying

Rio Park. Yet, "we are now caught with our pants down and no money."

He added: "The city dropped the ball on Pescadero Canyon. In every instance it has been forgotten. It was just taken for granted (that the land would not be developed.). They just let their priorities go."

An element of the Carmel General Plan focusing on public facilities and services calls for the creation of a priority list for acquisitions. But, "to my knowledge, no such list exists," said City Planning Director Diane White.

The other side

But it may not be so simple as what hindsight may suggest to some. There is a clean division in the argument, and many of the original supporters of Rio Park, also hoping for a solution to the Pescadero Canyon dilemma, contend that placing the two subjects side by side is erroneous.

"The availability of property doesn't always correspond to the money you have or the priorities (for acquisitions) you have spelled out," said Mayor Ken White, who eagerly hopes to see Rio Park become a recreation park with ball field. "You can always look back and criticize, say, the Park Branch of the library, or the Handley property..."

Councilwoman Barbara Brooks argued, "These are totally different situations," completely different kinds of properties with "completely different uses" in mind.

News analysis

Likewise, David Meredel, who is president of the Carmel Residents Association, but who spoke to The Carmel Pine Cone as an individual rather than spokesman, said: "I think that each project as it becomes available has to be looked at individually. I don't think you can point to any one of these acquisitions and say it was a bad purchase (in the light of future prospects)."

Long-standing concern

Nevertheless, Coniglio, a planning commissioner before he was elected, said concern over possible development in Pescadero Canyon goes back years at the planning commission level. While White of city staff explained that the desirability of acquiring Pescadero canyon can be charted back at least to 1979, to language in the Local Coastal Plan, Mapstead contends there are goals and provisions that go back further.

Regardless of what it said about Pescadero Canyon on the books, the issue simply may not have been on people's minds. And the possible development of homes near the Carmel Mission was a big enough challenge to confront.

"There was no other hot property at the time," said Bob D'Isidoro, who played a lead role in determining possible recreation uses for Rio Park. "The Pescadero issue was not festering."

Rio Park money

He added: "I think the money for Rio Park was well-spent because it was in the best interests of the people of Carmel. I don't view the Tescher-Levett property (in the canyon) as presenting that much of an adverse impact."

Some strong critics of Rio Park are also the least desperate of finding a way to block the few homes that could be built in the canyon. Regarding Rio Park, Don Kremer, a former council candidate who was critical of the deal two years ago, said, "I wouldn't want to be so bold as to say, 'I told you so,' because I'm not so sure I would want to buy Pescadero lots. We have to keep our fiscal responsibility."

While opinions vary, the sudden crisis of Pescadero Canyon seems to have invited some reflection on Rio Park. And while some would say it was never a matter of one against the next, others would say it should have been.

Police beat

Beware of men selling windows

By PAUL WOLF

CARMEL POLICE are now working on a case the general public should know about — lest others become victim to a scam that has already taken one Carmel resident and 28 out of town.

Police are trying to track down a certain William Chamberlain, who allegedly defrauded people in both Monterey and Santa Cruz Counties. In the process, he has swindled people to the tune of $100,000 with his custom windows business, according to Carmel Sgt. Dan Clark.

In Monterey County alone, 10 people reportedly have been victimized by Chamberlain's scam. What happened to a Carmel man followed the typical pattern.

Pay half first

The resident — a retired man who lives at Junipero and First Avenue — approached Chamberlain's West Coast Windows of Soquel for an estimate on a customized bay window. Chamberlain reportedly provided one, asked for half of the cost of the window before construction, and made a commitment for the work, explained Clark.

He was not heard from thereafter, and the Carmel man was out $1,250.

Caution

He tried to reach the window man at the number he had furnished, but it was disconnected. The victim reported the incident to police Sunday, May 30.

The word now is caution, according to police. The mere fact that more than half a dozen law-enforcement agencies are on Chamberlain's trail doesn't mean he will not continue playing his scam.

Clark advised people seeking help in home improvements to get references first, and to check names out with the state contractor's licensing board.

In another matter, police are seeking information regarding damage that was done to three parked cars in the area of Mountain View and Tores. The vandalism was carried out Saturday, May 30.

A total of three windows were smashed as a result of pellet guns or high-power sling shots aimed at the three cars.

City to focus on PR, enforce short-term rental ban

By PAUL WOLF

THE CITY of Carmel is planning a small-scale public relations campaign to let property owners know it will now enforce its short-term rentals ordinance.

On May 18, the U.S. Supreme Court announced it would not hear an appeal challenging Carmel's four-year-old law preventing the rental of homes for less than 30 days.

While technically the city was able to enforce its ordinance, it chose not to. "We have not done any follow-ups on complaints because of this legal process," said Carmel Planning Director Diane White.

Public relations

For the moment, the city will tackle public relations, but code-enforcement will follow soon enough. The planning department, White said, has been receiving complaints from neighbors about short-term rentals for many years, and there is currently a file on such complaints.

Acting City Administrator Greg D'Ambrosio said city staff, with the help of City Atty. Don Freeman, will place public notices in local newspapers. In addition, he will be sending letters to the regional boards of realtors.

Freeman noted that, while not every household in Carmel-by-the-Sea will receive a letter on the latest developments, the city will target known violators with its mailing.

Court decision

Opponents of the 1988 law took their fight to the lower courts, lost in appeals court, and eventually made it to the California Supreme Court, which decline to hear the case. Most observers expected the highest court in the land also to decline a review. It did, and so the avenues for legal challenge have been exhausted.

The case, which came under the heading John W. Ewing et al vs. the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, actually had its roots in the early 1980s, when attorney Ewing blocked a similar ordinance in Carmel. The ordinance was reformulated several years later, based on the premise that short-term rentals undermine the integrity of residential zoning.

CUSD budget under cloud

By PAUL WOLF

WITH A financial profile clouded by uncertainty, the Carmel Unified School District approaches a June 25 budget adoption date for its $16.4 million budget while some important questions remain unanswered.

"The theme of this year seems to be uncertainty, since we can't be absolutely certain what our income will be," said Pat Condren, member of the Carmel Unified School District school board.

For starters, the county continues to sort through some important tax matters concerning the sale of Pebble Beach Co., which took place earlier this year. A reassessment is likely to result from the relatively low sales price (reportedly $525 million) paid by a Japanese partnership, and the new tax outlook to result would affect school district funding.

Until the county, the company and most likely a court of law determine what is what, the district — half in Pebble Beach, half in Carmel and Carmel Valley — will remain in the dark about a major piece of the funding puzzle.

Judy Long, the CUSD business manager, said the staff has taken a "reasonable and conservative approach," simply by projecting no increased tax income from Pebble Beach for the 1992-93 year, and a 6-percent increase in income from other sources.

"There is no cause for alarm; we are just being cautious," said Condren.

The district has a state mandate to finalize its budget by July 1, the start of the new fiscal year.

Fundamentally, 1992-93 will not be a year for major new projects or spending categories, or, for that matter, many painful cuts — which many districts throughout the state have had to subject themselves to.

As it appears now, caution and the status quo can co-exist. Where trimming is necessary, Long said, it will be carried out "as far from the classroom as possible."

In something of a housekeeping matter, the district is hoping to resolve a mini-crisis regarding its health insurance coverage for its 340 employees.

Until recently, the district pooled insurance claims with other Monterey County school systems. It then went out on its own by establishing a self-insurance program, including a separate fund from which the district pays insurance claims for employees and family members who are eligible.

Claims costs

In 1990-91, the district paid $1.3 million in "claims costs," but this year costs are expected to climb to $1.65 million by the end of this fiscal year. Such an escalation is the result of more (and bigger) claims, and of spiraling health-care costs, Long said.

"This (problem) is something the administration, the board and the employee associations need to figure out how to solve," she said.

While she is not ready to recommend a solution just yet, she believes employee rates for the self-insurance fund may need to be raised, since the money has to come from somewhere.

As for the meat and bone of next year's budget, there are no earth-shattering items.

On the bright side, recent employee negotiations led to an agreement for more hours for teachers aides. Also, a new position for an elementary counselor was added, as well as a part-time district psychologist position.

Unfortunately, there were a few more items on the down side. For starters, they include:

- Reductions to the district's "educational technology" category, where $100,000 was spent last year to propel the district into the computer age.

The PG High School computer lab is an example of a program that benefited from that spending. The committee carrying out the master plan of the district's technology goals will find itself hand-cuffed in the coming year, as not a dollar has been budgeted for 1992-93, said Long.

• Notable reductions to the repair and replacement of equipment district-wide, according to Long.

• Postponement of easily neglected maintenance projects, like painting and repairs of roofs and heating systems.

• A $35,000 cut to teachers who orchestrate special programs. An example of such a program was this year's "Living History" program at the Carmel River School, which sent children in field trips, interviews and other activities outside the classroom.

Coles' tips on watching U.S. Open

Nick Faldo would be the ones to follow," said Coles.

Look for the player's attitude, how he prepares for the shot, and his pre-shot routine, lining-up. It will be the same every time, said Coles. "Watch the leaders hit bad shots, and also, the players who are struggling. Watch them struggle."

She thinks the U. S. Open is the toughest tournament in the world to win. "It's history. Nothing could be more spectacular than to go to the 1982 Open to watch Watson chip in on 17 to beat Nicklaus. Just to be there to watch the story unfold."

Monterey's user fee places Carmel, PG in tight spot

library system was terminating its modest contribution to four municipal branches in fiscal year 1992-93, which begins July 1.

These city libraries are in PG, Carmel, Monterey and Salinas. They have traditionally considered the county's funding "reimbursement" for their serving county patrons, as Morrison characterized it.

This year, the PG library received roughly $27,000; Carmel got $60,000. Carmel gets more proportionally than PG because about two-thirds of Carmel's card holders do not live in town. In PG, however, only about a quarter of its own 12,000 patrons live outside the city limits.

High and dry

While the county regrets its own financial woes — flat tax revenues but rising costs — city libraries resent being left high and dry. Now, from a practical standpoint, the questions deal with how to maintain the level of service and what to do about county patrons.

Monterey chose to institute a library card fee to non-city residents — $15 for minors and senior citizens, $50 for everyone else. Meanwhile, officials with the Carmel and Pacific Grove libraries independently concluded that charging county residents, while not inconceivable, was a last resort.

"It is my guess that people are going to go where it's free," said Pelikan. "This will have an impact."

Said Morrison: "I assume we'll be busier. We are going to give this a year and see what happens."

Monterey Library Director Paula Simpson said her branch's decision to charge didn't come easy, but it resulted from a choice between charging and cutting services. Simpson said she is aware the decision will have a "ripple effect" on other libraries. "This is a difficult situation to be in," she said.

Immediate solution

Meanwhile, Pelikan said she's heard reports from other areas that less than 5 percent of non-resident patrons agree to pay annual fees. This seems like an astonishing fact, considering that, say, $50 would equal the cost of only two to three new hard-cover novels.

Looking to the challenges of the next year, Pelikan said the immediate solution is for county patrons to take it upon themselves to chip in voluntarily. If they contribute informally, such a formal solution as charging fees may not be necessary, she explained.

"It is our hope that people who use us will give to us," Pelikan said. "We need their help."

Starting in July, the Carmel branch will pass out bookmarks, on which a brief description of the library's financial hardships will be spelled out, and the plea for help will be included. "It's logical to put that message right in front of the people who use the service," Pelikan said.

$60,000

In Carmel's budget profile, 75 to 80 percent of the library's funding is assigned to such items as staffing and building maintenance, money taken from the city's general fund. Private contributions and the county finance the budget for books and programs.

With two years behind it so far, the Carmel Public Library Foundation has raised a total of $60,000. In addition, the library has recently created an endowment, a permanent and growing fund whose interest will go toward its books-and-programs budget.

The bookmark will not solicit a specific amount, Pelikan said. Nevertheless, county patrons should bear in mind that they will have a part in whether the library retains its ample selection, she said.

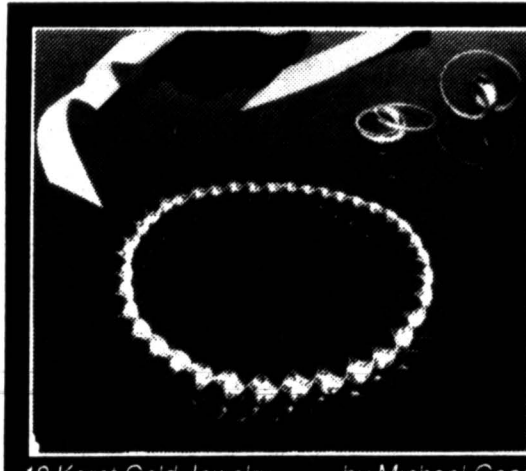

In Pacific Grove, according to Morrison, the chunk of county funding has not been earmarked for specific programs. Rather, it has simply been added to the overall PG library program.

During the coming year, Morrison, expecting increased out-of-town use, will monitor any possible changes with circulation, reference questions, inter-library loan requests and attendance in library programs. Charging non-resident patrons is not out of the question, but a certain amount of information needs to be gathered first to create a justification for it.

Football supports Junior Golf Association

The proceeds were raised through a golf tournament at Old Del Monte Golf Course hosted by the NFL Alumni and the National Football Foundation and College Hall of Fame. "The golfers had a great time," said Harper, "and the proceeds were given to an outstanding organization which teaches and promotes the game of golf to youngsters."

The AT&T Pebble Beach Junior Golf Association is a local non-profit organization created in 1988 to bring the game of golf to young people between the ages of seven and 17 who live on the Monterey Peninsula. The Association now has approximately 1,000 junior golfers who have benefited from clinics, tournaments and special events offered by the Association. The programs are all conducted by volunteers.

Sand City is still favorite site for desalination plant

By PAUL WOLF

FOLLOWING INITIAL environmental review, the Sand City alternative for a desalination plant remains the leading contender.

The Sand City project — the overwhelmingly favored solution to the water district's near-term supply crunch — would present "very minimal" environmental impacts if pursued.

That was the message of a draft environmental impact report, which is now available for public scrutiny and comment until June 10. A public hearing will be conducted 7:30, Monday, June 8 at Colton Hall, Pacific and Madison Streets in Monterey.

From the standpoint of cost and overall design, the Sand City option has been the favorite since the start of the year.

The Monterey Peninsula Regional Water Management board is expected next month to choose from three desal locations, including, besides Sand City, a site at the Monterey Regional Water Pollution Control Agency near Marina and one at Moss Landing.

Margo Nottenkamper, associate project planner for the Monterey Regional Water Management District, summarized just some of the merits of the Sand City option:

"It is the most cost-effective. It is within the district's boundaries, while the others are not. It doesn't involve great lengths of pipeline. The environmental impacts appear very minimal."

Therefore, she continued, it is the overwhelming favorite at this time."

Benign profiles

The draft EIR, prepared by EIR Associates of San Francisco, also presented fairly benign profiles of the two alternative locations. But the Sand City project has the most going for it.

The 3-million-gallon-a-day desalting facility would cost an estimated $29.6 million, roughly 60 percent the cost of the Moss Landing plan. A desal plant would produce roughly 3,000-acre-feet of water a year, roughly three times what the new Paralta well is expected to yield starting later this year.

The favored project would include the conversion of a vacant warehouse just east of Highway 1, the installation of two ranney collectors, and the construction of a 25-foot-tall tank to store up to 1.4 million gallons of water.

The "visual impacts" of a massive tank was highlighted in the draft document. Mitigations recommended for the problem would include screening the tank with vegetation and choosing paint colors carefully.

Noise factor

The noise that would be caused by construction at any of the three sites was deemed "a significant impact," but in each case it would be a temporary problem, noted Nottenkamper.

To date, there is still some concern regarding Sand City's proposed brine discharge system, which would dispose of brine by injecting it underground into aquifers. The questions appear to be more technical than environmental, with the draft EIR recommending additional testing, according to Nottenkamper.

The Moss Landing and Marina alternatives pose potential impacts on plant and animal species, resulting from the construction of many miles of pipeline. The line would travel from the two possible plant locations to an outfall pipe now in place.

Invariable, if either site were chosen, pipeline routes — seven and a half miles for Marina, 15 for Moss Landing — would have to be rerouted to avoid the habitat of such creatures as the black legless lizard and a variety of native plant species.

The hope is that, with the novel underground brine discharge device, the Sand City alternative would avoid such a cumbersome pipeline.

Water officials remain cool to private 'thermal' desal plant

By PAUL WOLF

A PRIVATE proposal to build the peninsula water district a thermal distillation desalination plant at Moss Landing may not be such a favorable plan after all.

At the request of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management board, which met June 8, the district's general manager did a quick study of cost factors for the private plant — as put forward by Frank Wright, vice president of construction and operations for O'Brien Environmental Energy of Philadelphia.

Wright made a pitch to board members June 8, maintaining that the O'Brien plan would be more cost-effective than whatever the government-run alternatives would be.

The costs of the private plant — which would include a desal facility as an adjunct to a cogeneration plant at the National Refractories — would work out to roughly the same cost as the $29.6-million "reverse osmosis" desalination plant now being considered for Sand City, according to Jim Cofer, the district's general manager. The company neglected to factor in a couple of significant costs, Cofer explained.

But Moss Landing is not the environmentally preferred location, according to water officials. The district has more or less confirmed that an old warehouse building in Sand City would be the best place.

Officials with O'Brien told the seven-member water board it could sell desalinated water for about $1,600 an acre-foot, which appears to have been a significant underestimation.

The board directed Cofer to factor in the expense of a large water storage tank and many miles of necessary pipeline for

MPWMD to host riparian conference on June 12

THE MONTEREY Peninsula Water Management District is hosting a conference on the monitoring of riparian and wetland resources at 9 a.m. Friday, June 12.

The morning session will be held at the Sunset Community Center in Carmel. The conference will also feature a field trip to MPWMD restoration sites on the Carmel River. The conference is open to public at no charge.

Protection of riparian and wetland habitats is one of the hottest issues in water resource management today. Because our community's present water supply needs adversely impact these resources along the Carmel River, requirements by state and federal agencies will affect nearly every citizen on the Monterey Peninsula. Future water supply projects such as a new dam must be designed to minimize impacts to these habitats.

The conference will feature presentations by key governmental resource agencies, including the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and the National Marine Fisheries Service. These agency speakers will focus on monitoring requirements and compliance for riparian and wetland habitats. Consulting biologists will then make presentations on how to develop and implement monitoring plans. Updates on projects in other areas in California will also be presented by conference participants, many of whom are members of the California Chapter of the Society for Ecological Restoration as well as the Riparian Revegetation Study Group.

the brine discharge of any plant that would be built at Moss Landing.

The outcome of Cofer's cursory check made the offer seems less interesting. "We have already defined an environmentally preferable alternative," said Margo Nottenkamper, the district's associate project planner. "The Sand City plant could be done with private financing, too, but to us it's more the selection of the site (that's important) than anything else."

In addition, Water Board Chairman

Dale Hekhuis said the district "has the obligation to build a plant within district boundaries." Moss Landing is outside those borders.

Nevertheless, Nottenkamper said water district staff will "evaluate the proposal," and "if it's a viable alternative, bring it to the board."

Whatever the advantages of a private plant in Moss Landing may be, she said, there would still be the environmental concerns associated with the 15-miles of pipeline that would carry the brine discharge, the by-product of the desalination process.

Local attorney advocates women's rights

By SUSAN BECK

ANNE MCGOWAN doesn't think it's any big deal to have been appointed the first woman to the Mid Valley Fire District Board of Directors.

But that's in keeping with her overall philosophy that the important thing is to get the job done.

"I never thought about being a woman as different. I came from a family that encouraged us to do what we wanted to do. We were made to believe we could do anything," said McGowan.

Which she can.

While serving on the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association board several years ago, she met Monterey County Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman who was also a board member.

Strasser Kauffman thought of McGowan when a position became available on the fire district board.

The first thing McGowan did was instigate changing the board meetings from a closed breakfast get together at Quail Lodge to a public meeting place.

"I wanted to get it out of the private place and into a public forum. I would like to feel that I am a representative of women. One thing they do is bring politics into the open," said McGowan.

She lives in Carmel Valley with her husband, and together they raised three sons, and a daughter. She's an attorney specializing in environmental law, estate planning, wills, trusts, and probate.

That would seem for most people enough to handle, but not for McGowan.

Being on the fire district board is just a part of what this extremely enthusiastic and energetic woman has done and is doing.

She is always getting more involved, and especially takes her women's advocate role and responsibilities seriously.

McGowan is the president of the California Women Lawyers (CWL). There are 750,000 lawyers in the United States. California has 130,000 attorneys and 26 percent of them are women. Two thousand of those women belong to the CWL.

The goal of the organization this year is to set policy guidelines for sexual harassment for businesses, which includes federal and state law, and to pass a pro-choice abortion resolution at the annual August convention in San Francisco.

McGowan anticipates that the pro-choice resolution will dramatically increase the groups membership.

"Pro-choice will keep government from interfering with women's reproduction rights. The decision is between a woman and her doctor. I don't believe we can tell someone else what their choice is," said McGowan.

"I think women should have confidence in speaking about their perception of what is right. It's part of the nurturing process. Women will be the ones to speak out for children and older people."

And then there's the environment.

McGowan is the attorney for the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District.

"The environment is the future. We are part of the environment, and when we take care of it, we take care of ourselves. I'm not anti-development, but it must be in harmony with our surroundings," said McGowan.

For example, the Hatton Canyon Freeway.

"I'll be one of those people to lie down in front of the tractors. I've never seen a road that isn't growth inducing. If we build Hatton Canyon, it will be filled up before we know it. We'll be looking for another way to reduce congestion.

"Carmel Valley has the perfect setting for becoming a big smog bowl. Put Hatton Canyon in and it's the first step toward smog. Fortunately, I'm not the prophet crying in the wilderness. A lot of people here feel the same," said McGowan.

This very capable woman encourages everyone to get involved.

"You don't have to have a degree to participate. All you need is a good head on your shoulders and a willingness to serve. I love to work with people, it's a real opportunity to give back something."

CVPOA endeavors to protect rural essence of the valley

By Patricia Sandstrum
Community Relations Chair
Carmel Valley Property Owners Association

TWENTY-SIX years ago when we first purchased land in Carmel Valley, we gazed at green slopes dotted with grazing Holsteins and pristine redwood forests in the Santa Lucia mountains. We wondered what it would be like when we would come back to live permanently in California.

When we returned 11 years ago, cattle no longer grazed on that remembered pasture, although the slope is still green — a green space in a developed area. The mushroom farm was gone but so much still remained as we remembered it. In large measure, we believe it remained the same due to the vigilant and far-sighted organization, the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association (CVPOA).

Founded nearly a quarter of a century ago, the association recognized the importance of retaining and maintaining the rural essence of this valley. For that reason we became members immediately.

If you own or rent property in Carmel Valley you not only should but must become a member of CVPOA according to President Allan Sandstrum who strongly believes that it's in your own best interest.

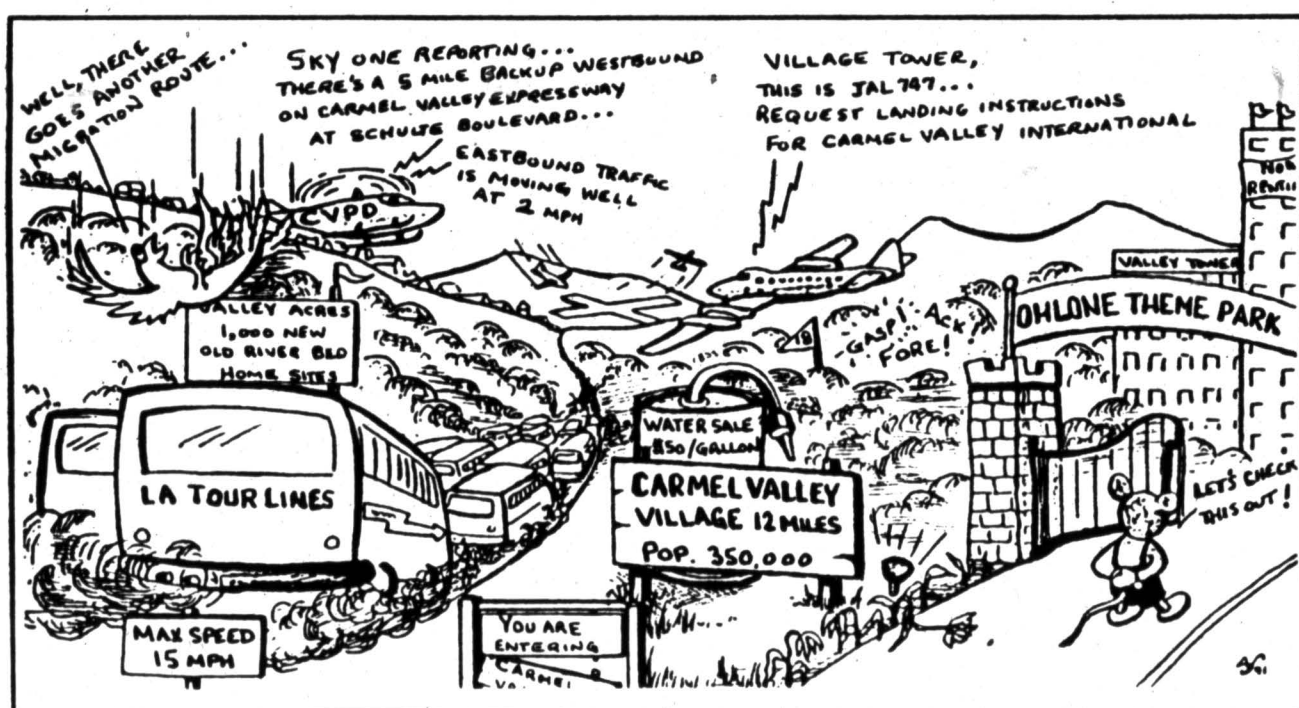

"To preserve, protect and defend the natural beauty and the resources of Carmel Valley and the County of Monterey's natural environment is the primary mission of the CVPOA," said Sandstrum. He especially encourages all property owners to join. "When Carmel Valley property owners learn more about the valley and events of concern, they will influence its future."

Operating expenses

Because the activities and operating expenses of the CVPOA are supported only by annual membership dues and special contributions, it is important to increase the membership. Owners are voting members however, renters or persons leasing homes may join as non-voting associate members and can be an effective voice in the organization through polls and questionnaires.

Annual owner membership dues are $7.50 for individuals and $15 for couples. Dues for renters are $6 for individuals and $12 for couples. The association was organized in 1949 to protect the rights of property owners, the rural valley atmosphere and its ecological balance. Many recommendations of CVPOA have been adopted by county government. It remains a major force in ensuring the preservation of the Carmel Valley Master Plan policies.

Over the years, CVPOA has served its membership and the valley by conducting public forums for exchange of information and discussions on current issues (development, zoning, roads, water, etc.).

In 1988 CVPOA also found the earlier Hatton Canyon freeway designs unacceptable both in esthetics and function. A statement of concern was issued and Caltrans has since repeatedly gone back to the drawing board to further sensitize the design to the terrain and viewshed. Currently there is an ongoing series of 15 public forums concerning the traffic trigger, proposed road improvements and their funding sources. Membership will be polled separately.

Results will be provided to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors in July about this issue.

Committees constantly monitor the activities and attend meetings of the water management board, planning commission and the board of supervisors regarding such issues as proposed subdivision developments and use permits, and water allocation. It proposes guidelines and model ordinances to the county government enhancing good land use e.g. Carmel Valley Master Plan, hillside conservation zoning, flood plane zoning.

The board takes the pulse of its extensive, representative membership through polls, surveys, and personal contact and provides information to the membership in their newsletter and through special notices.

CVPOA's board of directors meet every second Wednesday of each month at the Mid-Valley Fire Station at 7:30 p.m. Meetings are open to the public.

Join CVPOA. Mail your name(s), address, and check for dues to CVPOA, Box 157, Carmel Valley, 93924. Our valley has a special quality. Working together, we become good friends and guardians of our valley's uniqueness.

The spiritual side of money

THE SPIRITUAL side of money is about to unfold as Mars enters Taurus on June 15th and will stay there, to enlighten you until July 26th. Those born on February 7th, May 7th, August 9th and November 9th will feel it "most" July 7 through 10 when Aquarius will explore their friends resources, as in borrowing power, while Taurus is busy completing "spiritual puberty" and Leo decides to go for the "quality of life" and complicated Scorpio could use colonics. Those born February 9th, May 4th, August 13th and November 13th will have some turmoil to deal with on July 12 and 13.

In the USA chart T. Mars will be in its hidden intercepted 12th house (what's this country doing with our money issues)...and since the USA's chart has a 13-degree Aquarius 10th house (career) and its Moon is at 18-degrees Aquarius, the issues are: the desire for change, the basic necessities of life as in food, clothing and shelter. The 10th house represents the leader of our country, as in "what are you going to do now, George?" and I wouldn't want to be Alan Greenspan in July and I'd be extremely cautious of stock market activities in July as well. What our President does in July can have important consequences in the outcome of our 92' elections.

State's hidden ills

Mars will be in California's 7th house of marriage and partnerships while its Venus in 1-degree Scorpio (12th house will get activated June 15, 16, 17, 18) bringing forth hidden ills of the state: hospitals, asylums, jails and prisons including those who work in such places as in doctors, nurses and the people who combat crime, i.e. Gates head on L.A.'s chopping block! What is California going to do about welfare and the unemployed?

A little closer to home, Carmel's solar 7th house in Taurus ruled by its Venus in solar 11th shows more letters being written to our congressmen, at state and national levels as well as city government reps. We will all learn the meaning of the word "philanthropy" and about forms of betterment for the community... like, what is better and for whom?

Hermits come forward

July won't be a month for anyone desiring "peace and quiet"...all hermits come forward. With Jupiter now in Virgo, many will be concerned with their health, physical, emotional and mental will be tested, and some of you may be thinking that your health might be improved if you relocate to another place. Conditions will come up that will test your courage and survival, especially where finances are concerned. Some will simply give up trying to keep up with the Jones's...they've had it!

Since T. Mars in Taurus rules money and values, it will square T. Saturn in Aquarius (ruled by Uranus and also ruling riots). What radical elements, or left-wing activities will upset the equilibrium in places like L.A. when Mars squares it 10th/4th axis June 15, 16, 17, 18? Also, it squares its Pluto in the 4th on June 19, especially 20, 21 and 22...perhaps another earthquake? Pluto in the 4th is prone to earthquakes you know.

This is the strongest, hardest hit money time coming up in more than 30-years with 2nd house issues taking the lead...this strong reference to money says prepare to see mortgage companies putting a mighty fence around your property, as in foreclosure (watch the public notices column grow in newspapers at this time) where auctions declare its net worth. We will ALL indeed be "establishing spiritual values" as well as dollar ones during these dates, in many different ways, at many different levels. We're going to learn how to "build" up our resources, sell our properties wisely, and some will be daring enough to buy their "first" homes.

You might be asking yourself: what is your self-worth? Are you spiritually bankrupt? How do you feel about yourself: How do you value yourself? Does it have to do with money? Are you popular with your peers? Do you feel significant in your family? Are you proud of your education? Are you feeling loved and needed? Just "how valuable" are you?

Many of you will be dealing with karmic situations with those you have dealt with in the past. Fighting and stealing, or other dishonesty, to acquire material goods or to satisfy the desires won't go by unnoticed as Saturn clamps down on Mars offenders. I'm also seeing something to do with military restrictions. The butchering of reputations and Mars in Taurus says, "give me what's mine."

What are the planets teaching us? Detachment from all things material, like LET GO already. There's a very good tape, available at Pilgrim's Way Bookstore (6th and Dolores) entitled Letting Go by an Arizona boy, Jon Shore. I suggest you play it between June 15th and July 26th.

Cancers, Virgos, Capricorns and Pisces won't be whacked on the side of the head with 2 x 4's (spiritual) like the other signs will. It's time to give up our resentments and negative attitudes, folks.

Writers' rights

MR. BLACKWELL, the ageless designer/columnist who has made an international reputation spouting things others thought, but were afraid to say out loud, may seem an unlikely candidate to use as an example of someone who espouses writers' rights. But behind that bitchy facade beats the heart of a man who likes to tell the truth.

On his seeming disdain for his subjects -

"I don't have utter disdain for the stars. I have utter disdain for what they were doing because nobody, I mean NOBODY, was willing to take a position. I simply said what I thought."

On his new book, Mr. Blackwell's Worst: 30 Years of Fashion Fiascos -

"It's funny. I just wish some people wouldn't take it so damn seriously."

On his detractors -

"There are a certain amount of frustrated, desperately lonely people that get very defensive that anyone has said anything about their idols. I don't know what these people look like, but I can tell you one thing, they write letters on lined, spiral stationary. If I open up an envelope and see something torn out of a spiral pad and it's written illegibly, I know she's calling me every four-letter name under the sun."

Nora Ephron, another well known writer, once said, "Never write without knowing what you think." No matter what your opinion of his subject matter is, one thing is for sure. Mr. Blackwell, like all good writers, says what he thinks.

Blackwell will be appearing at the "Friends of Hospice Annual Luncheon," Saturday, June 27 at The Inn at Spanish Bay. Call 625-5175 for reservation information.

TEAPOT, PART II

Symphony Guild members Bonnie Lind and Sue Dewar have taken the innocuous "tea pot" coloring contest recently co-sponsored by the Monterey County Symphony Guild and The Carmel Pine Cone and turned it into a major art event and fund raiser, proving the Monterey Peninsula has rightfully earned the title of "volunteer capitol of the world." Give a volunteer any excuse around here and they'll stage a fund raiser.

"It's goofy," said Dewar, the original creator of the whimsical tea set. "Everyone loves the idea of a silly little coloring contest. We have 50 entries by cartoonists, artists and celebrities including Clint Eastwood, Betty White, Hank Ketcham, Eldon Dedini, Gus Arriola, Alex Anderson, Bill Dodge, Bill Bates, Bill Stone, Will Bullas, Lynn Larson, Jean Brenner, Glenn Bernhardt and Jane Hoppin.

Now titled "Artists Helping Artists," the renditions on a tea set theme will be displayed in a silent auction format at the Carmel Art Association galleries Wednesday, June 17 through Friday, June 19. For more information call 624-8511.

IRONIES & INTRIGUES

Jane Dart described "The Splendid Centuries," a selection of paintings from the French schools of the 18th and 19th centuries, as "scintillating." The masterpieces, displayed in the traditional style, were unveiled at an exclusive preview and reception at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art. Here's a tip to those who didn't view the show that night, but opted instead, to socialize and imbibe. Plan a quiet afternoon at the Museum, just you and the paintings. The exhibit runs for almost four months.

Imagine 14 gallery openings in one afternoon. That's the concept for an idea whose time has come, the "First Annual Gallery Walk," recently announced by the Carmel Business Association. Sample pairings for the event, scheduled for the final day of the U.S. Open Championship, include the Carmel Art Association and Ristorante La Dolce Vita, Gallerie Blue Dog and Flaherty's, George Bleich Gallery and Patisserie Boissiere, Masterpiece Gallery and Pine Inn, Miner's Gallery Americana and Piatti, Village Artistry and the Greek Taverna and Zantman Gallery and Mediterranean Market. The walk is open to the public and free of charge.

The news that Mark O'Meara has paid $8,000 to rent a home in Pebble Beach for the week of the U.S. Open prompted a country resident attending the grand opening of Ringers' General Store in Cachagua to quip, "How much do you think a secluded knotty pine cabin in the woods would go for?"

Three of the nine artists displaying paintings in the Majorie Evans Gallery at Sunset Cultural Center also juried the work of 92 local artists to be offered for sale at the "Outdoor Summer Art Festival" June 20 and 21, also at Sunset. Spokesman Miguel Dominguez joked at the opening reception, "If the artists we rejected for the festival want to criticize us for jurying them out, they can come in here and see our work!"

Also in attendance were Ron and Nancy Reagan, Clint Eastwood, Carl Reiner, Mel Brooks and Barbara Rush. A reception for 600 was held at Griffin's Beverly Hills Hilton Hotel.

An enthusiastic fan at the James Brown concert returned with this report, "So what, if the crowd had to wait for the hardest working man in show biz. It was worth it. Carmel Youth Baseball

By Pat Little

Winding down

CARMEL YOUTH Baseball is entering its final days of games. It seems like only yesterday that the uniforms were passed out. Now it's almost time to turn them in. It has been fun to watch our rookies become seasoned players and our seasoned players upgrade their skills. The only thing that has remained unchanged over the weeks has been their enthusiasm.

Coming up on Saturday 6/13 is Closing Day at Larson field. The barbecue runs from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The ceremony begins at 1 p.m., with the naming of the top teams. Round robin games and other activities will take place throughout the day. All-star players will be notified the next day.

Pintos (ages 7&8): RG Burgers (RGB) played Copies By The Sea (CBTS) on Monday 6/1. The power hitters were Jimmy Stoddard (RGB), James Gillette (RGB), and Luke Perkins (CBTS), all of whom doubled; and Kevin Dorey (CBTS) and Kristin Wood (RGB), both of whom doubled twice.

RGB rover Caitlin Travaille caught a line drive to right field and made it look easy, and teammate Chase Montgomery at center picked up a ball with a hard bounce. CBTS rovers Luke Perkins and Kirk Danielson were on the ball also, repeatedly firing off quickly and accurately to 1st. Andrew Dahl (CBTS) tagged out runners twice at 2nd.

At the Wednesday 6/3 game between Thunderbird for Kids (IFK) and On The Beach (OTB), Kyle Breuleux slugged a home run and a double, and Adam Canepa and Erick Carl both doubled for OTB. The game witnessed "heads up" fielding by OTB players Erick Carl, Zack Baysinger, and Gavin Edward.

If Kenny Kleinkopf can hit anything else besides home runs, he did not show it at the Pine Inn (PI) and New Masters Gallery (NMG) game on Thursday 6/4. He hit 3 of them. Mark Ferlito (PI), Matt Herbert (NMG), Scott Spaulding (NMG), Brett George (NMG), and Alex Brant (NMG) all doubled.

Carl Lemos and Scott Spaulding teamed up for 2 outs at 1st on behalf of NMG, and Devin Parks made 2 outs at 1st for PI. Mark Ferlito (PI) zoomed in for a spectacular fly catch at center, and another PI fielder John Puccinelli executed 2 beautiful catches, one that brought him sliding to his knees.

When New Masters Gallery (NMG) met Copies By The Sea (CBTS) on Saturday 6/6, Erik Van Valkenburgh and Luke Perkins produced ground-rule doubles, and Andrew Dahl a double for CBTS.

Kevin Dorey (CBTS) made graceful catches and precise throws as short stop. CBTS fielder Brendan Lyke expertly picked up on a bounce to throw to 2nd for an out. Right fielder Kyle Lyons (CBTS) made a super stop for a throw to 1st. Nick Pacitto (CBTS) dazzled all with a high-fly catch in left.

On Saturday also, On The Beach (OTB) engaged RG Burgers (RGB). Leading hitters were Adam Canepa (triple), Zack Baysinger (double), and Aron Forbes (double) for OTB, and James Gillette (2 doubles) for RGB. The power-hitting Travaille twins, Megan and Caitlin, delivered solid hits.

Erick Carl, Kyle Breuleux, and Alex Heisinger performed some "heads up" fielding for OTB. David Little (RGB) served as a good backup during the game, and Andrew Tope (RGB) made a neat tagout at 3rd.

At Saturday's Pine Inn (PI) and Thunderbirds for Kids (TFK) game, Kenny Kleinkopf was still on his home-run streak. He put one over the fence and hit his 2nd grand slam of the season for PI. Teammates Evan Smith tripled, and Devin Parks and Mark Ferlito doubled. Fielding with fury, Kenny caught 3 line drives, and Mark, 3 sharp grounders.

Mustangs (ages 9&10): It was 14-4 in the Tuesday 6/2 game between Carmel Bay Company (CBC) and Coast Teleproductions (CTP). The top hitter for the winning CBC team was Robby Wellington with 2 triples. Hans Lee and Patrick Thomas fielded flies effectively for CTP, and teammate Danny Titherington executed good base stealing.

Fourtanes (F) took Sensations (S) 6-4 on Wednesday 6/3. Chris Canepa (S) and Scott Williams (F) led the hitters with doubles. Kyle Taylor (S) made an impressive throw from center to home. Brian Orosco (F) threw to 1st for a 1st out, then caught a fly for a 2nd out. Justin Brennan (F) caught a fly also for a 3rd out. Aber Oyler (S) had a good pitching debut.

On Thursday 6/4, County Mounties (CM) beat That's My Boy (TMB) 13-7. Best hitters were Rhett Petit (TMB) with 2-for-3 IRBI and Nick Ockert (TMB) with 2-for-3

Developmental tension

Developmental tension serves a purpose...when I lived in Key West, Florida (back in 85-86) there was always a lot of construction going on and the favorite building activity was sidewalk paving. For a while cement was being poured into every nook and cranny, unpaved path in Key West. I watched the cement set and harden and what I loved and remembered MOST was when stubborn little daisies would push their way UP through the cement toward the sunlight all over town as if to say, "I'm stronger than man-made cement, you can't push me down, and I will grow in spite of you trying to smash and squash me to the ground." I smiled...for that's the way I see Taurus grow...

Doris Day's Best Friends

By Doris Day

Buster's dilemma

POORBUSTER! First a hip replacement, then a bee sting. The other day he was out on the deck, enjoying the morning sun. Suddenly he became very agitated and pawed at his face. It swelled quickly and seemed quite painful. We looked around to try to figure out what had happened and discovered a hornet's nest tucked up in the rafters of the porch — which we immediately had removed.

Meanwhile, Buster's doctor gave him a cortisone injection and treated him with Benadryl, which he suggested we keep on hand. It's an antihistamine that works well in animals as well as humans, so be sure to have some in your medicine cabinet for this kind of emergency.

It's important to get to a veterinarian right away if you suspect an insect has stung your pet. The most obvious symptom is swelling, usually on the face, nose, or paw. If your pet is allergic to the stinger, he may become very ill so beware of the bees.

Another happy ending

But this one isn't about an adoption, it's about Elsie, my sweet little Daschund. One morning a couple of weeks ago, out of the blue, Elsie couldn't walk. Her hind quarters were paralyzed and I was absolutely in shock. At the suggestion of her veterinarian, we took her to see Dr. Tom LaHue, a board certified orthopedic surgeon at the Santa Cruz Veterinary Hospital.

Dr. LaHue examined Elsie thoroughly and did a myelogram to determine exactly what was causing the problem. A myelogram, by the way, is an x-ray technique in which a dye is injected along the spinal cord. It showed that Elsie had a herniated (or ruptured) disc that was pressing on her spinal cord, causing paralysis. Surgery had to be performed to remove the disc material, relieving the pressure on the spinal cord. The extent to which the animal improves depends on the amount of damage to the cord, so it's extremely important to take care of this condition immediately.

I'm happy to report that Elsie's surgery was a tremendous success. She was walking within three days but her movement was greatly restricted. She is confined to my kitchen and we have to keep her from jumping, sitting, or climbing stairs. All of those movements are hard on her back and although she'll make a complete recovery, we'll have to discourage her from being too rambunctious from now on.

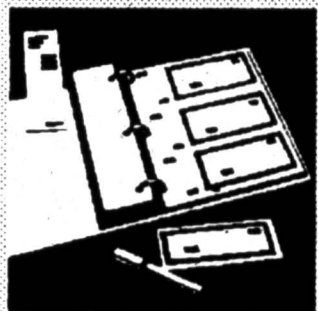

Daschunds and Bassets have delicate discs that begin to degenerate early in life. So, if you have one of these wonderful breeds, be aware of this potential problem. Don't let your pet overdo and put stress on that delicate back. Besides restricting the activities I've mentioned, strenuous frisbee or ball playing is a no-no, particularly if your doggy jumps in the air to fetch.

Remember, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure!

That's all for this week, see you next time.

(Written in collaboration with Judy Ruby, director, Doris Day Pet Foundation, Los Angeles)

Spas, Hot Tubs And Pools Prove A Balm To Aching Bones

Doctors often recommend a good soak in a hot tub or spa as a way for arthritis sufferers to smooth out the kinks during cold weather. It's the same remedy discovered by skiers after a vigorous day on the slopes to avoid "charlie horse."

For those wanting the benefits of some exercise, as well, an increasingly popular activity is "acquacise"—exercise done in the shallow end of a warm pool. Water acts as a support cushion, making it possible to realize the aerobic benefits of exercise with minimal stress. Accordingly, "acquacise" done in accordance with a doctor's recommendation can be of benefit to people recovering from injuries as well as to pregnant women, the elderly and the handicapped.

A person's physique, however, needs regular attention to keep it in good shape. So, too, do pools, spas and hot tubs. In order to simplify effective maintenance, Hydrotech Chemical Corporation has developed a line of easy-to-use brominated sanitizing products containing Clorfree® that have the added benefits of not giving off chlorine odor or causing swimwear bleaching.

Just as a judiciously used tub, spa or pool can reduce the strain of physical exercise, proper use of modern-day sanitizers can take the strain out of maintenance.

including a double and 3 RBI. TMB Patrick Greco doubled, and CM Brent Fogg tripled. Brett Smith made an impressive throw to catcher Brent Fogg at homeplate to put out a TMB runner trying to stretch a hit. 14-4 awarded Carmel Bay Company (CBC) the win in its Saturday 6/6 game with That's My Boy (TMB). Jez Munyer (CBC) led the batting with 3-for-3. Robby Wellington, David Blagg, and Jeff McGowan (twice) doubled for CBC. Robby Wellington and Jez Munyer both executed double plays for CBC. Richard Gonzales and Kareem Khalidy fielded well for TMB.

Coast Teleproductions (CTP) snatched Saturday's game from Dean Witter (DW) 10-9 with 2 runs in the 6th. The top hitter was Chris Foudy (DW), who doubled 3 times with 2 RBI. Andrew Arthur also doubled for DW. Hans Lee (CTP) contributed 3 strong hits with IRBI and great base stealing. Ross Saroyan (CTP) was walked, but continued around the bases to score—all in one play! Anthony Corder packed wallop into his single for DW.

Broncos (ages 11 & 12): Carmel Valley Disposal (CVD) had a strong 6th inning that scored 3 runs, but it was not enough to beat Cornucopia (C) on Monday 6/1. C won 6-3. Michael Cohen (CVD), Patrick Foudy (C), and Nick Campbell (C) doubled. Nick made 3 runs for C, 2 by stealing home. Joey Macaluso (CVD) drove in 2 runs with his strong hit. Peter Jamison had a nice throw to Michael Cohen at home for CVD.

Vessey's (V) beat Bay Bikes (BB) 6-1 on Tuesday 6/2. For BB, Sandy Greenfield batted a sacrifice fly to center and had another base hit; Noah Cowen contributed a strong base hit; and Jacob Singer scored the lone run. BB fielder Austin Guest made an unassisted double play. Justin Noseworthy (V) had an exemplary day at bat and field with 2 singles, 1 double, 1 RBI, and 5 outs at center and 2nd. Teammate Alex Salmoun made a dramatic diving catch in left field.

Carmel Valley Disposal (CVD) pitchers combined their efforts for a 1-hit, 1-run win over Vessey's on Saturday 6/6. Trent Nishiguchi (CVD) had 4 innings with no hits, no runs; Michael Cohen (CVD) had 3 innings with 1 hit, 1 run, and 5 strikeouts.

UNITY CHURCH OF

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

The number of unemployed people over 55 who want to work is estimated at six million. "The biggest single barrier" has been "the lack of verifiable evidence that it makes good sense economically" to hire them, says Thomas Moloney, an official of the Commonwealth Fund, a foundation based in New York. So the Fund sponsored a study of productivity, absenteeism, turnover and other job standards. Summing up the findings, Moloney said: "We have here the first systematic, hard-nosed economic analysis showing older workers are good investments."

Edith Milner, of Dreshner, Pennsylvania, never got a high school diploma, but at age 62 this mother of three graduate from Villanova University with a degree in human services. A native of Czechoslovakia, she was deported at age 15 during World War II to the Nazi death camp at Auschwitz and endured a year there.

Remember When? "From Here to Eternity," based on the novel of that title, won the Academy Award as best film of the year for its stark portrayal of Army Life in Hawaii in the months preceding the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Father Farrell's Wisdom

Check the mirror

PHILOSOPHERS LIST the human traits, or as the British say, "trays" which sour human relations. However, in the average man's book, the characteristics which cause the most annoyance are complaining, grousing, belly-aching, the "gloomy gus" syndrome.

We are weather experts. We report on dark clouds without silver linings. We broadcast every man's worst qualities. We denigrate their good ones. Our conversations are full of spite for everyone and everything. We tell the world about our ailments, aches, pains and our hurt feelings.

We delight in spotting wrongs—real and imaginary. We glory in reporting them endlessly. Obviously this demands a drastic cure. Every day we should check our mirror because chronic complaining leaves its mark; the perpetual frown, the cold eye, the tight lip, the turned-down mouth and the bilious color.

Oh Lord, help us be kind in word, in deed, in thought. Feed us on the wholesome bread of Thy Love, not on the crumbs of bitterness and gossip. If we are tempted to eat the cake of criticism give us the treatment recorded on the pub sign in Kent: the Silent Woman, who walks the bloody tower with her head tucked underneath her arm. Amen.

As a motorist you can help reduce accidents by observing posted speed limits. You can also let your legislators know you oppose increased speed limits and radar detectors.

PGAC sets opening: four different artists

THE NEXT opening reception at Pacific Grove Art Center (PGAC) will be held from 7-9 p.m. Friday, June 12, to mark the commencement of four different exhibits which will run through July 17.

A rundown on the shows: memorial retrospective of paintings by the late Louise Cardeiro Boyer (David Henry Gill Gallery), monotypes by Louise B. Barnard (Elmarie Dyke Gallery), oils and Chinese watercolors by Jay Hannah (Hall Gallery), portraits in black and white by Tony Salazar (Photography Gallery).

A celebration

At 7 p.m. Saturday, June 13, the public as well as old friends and family members will share in a "celebration of life" recalling Mrs. Boyer. PGAC and the Central Coast Chapter of Artists Equity will remember the lady with a plaque and the naming of a gallery in her honor. Refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Boyer, a former PGAC director, died March 10 at her Pacific Grove home at age 87. She painted and exhibited over much of the world, including Mexico and South America along with the United States.

Her paintings cover a wide range of subjects. They have been seen locally at PGAC, Carmel Art Association, Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, Cherry Foundation, Santa Catalina School.

Louise B. Barnard of Salinas has studied with Jackie Kirk, George DeGroat, Joseph Mugnini, Karen Nagano, others. She has shown at Carmel Outdoor Arts Festival (juried), where she got a first-place award in mixed media; Portofino Cafe (solo and otherwise); Monterey County Fair (juried), where she was awarded a first-place ribbon in watercolor.

Stanford studies

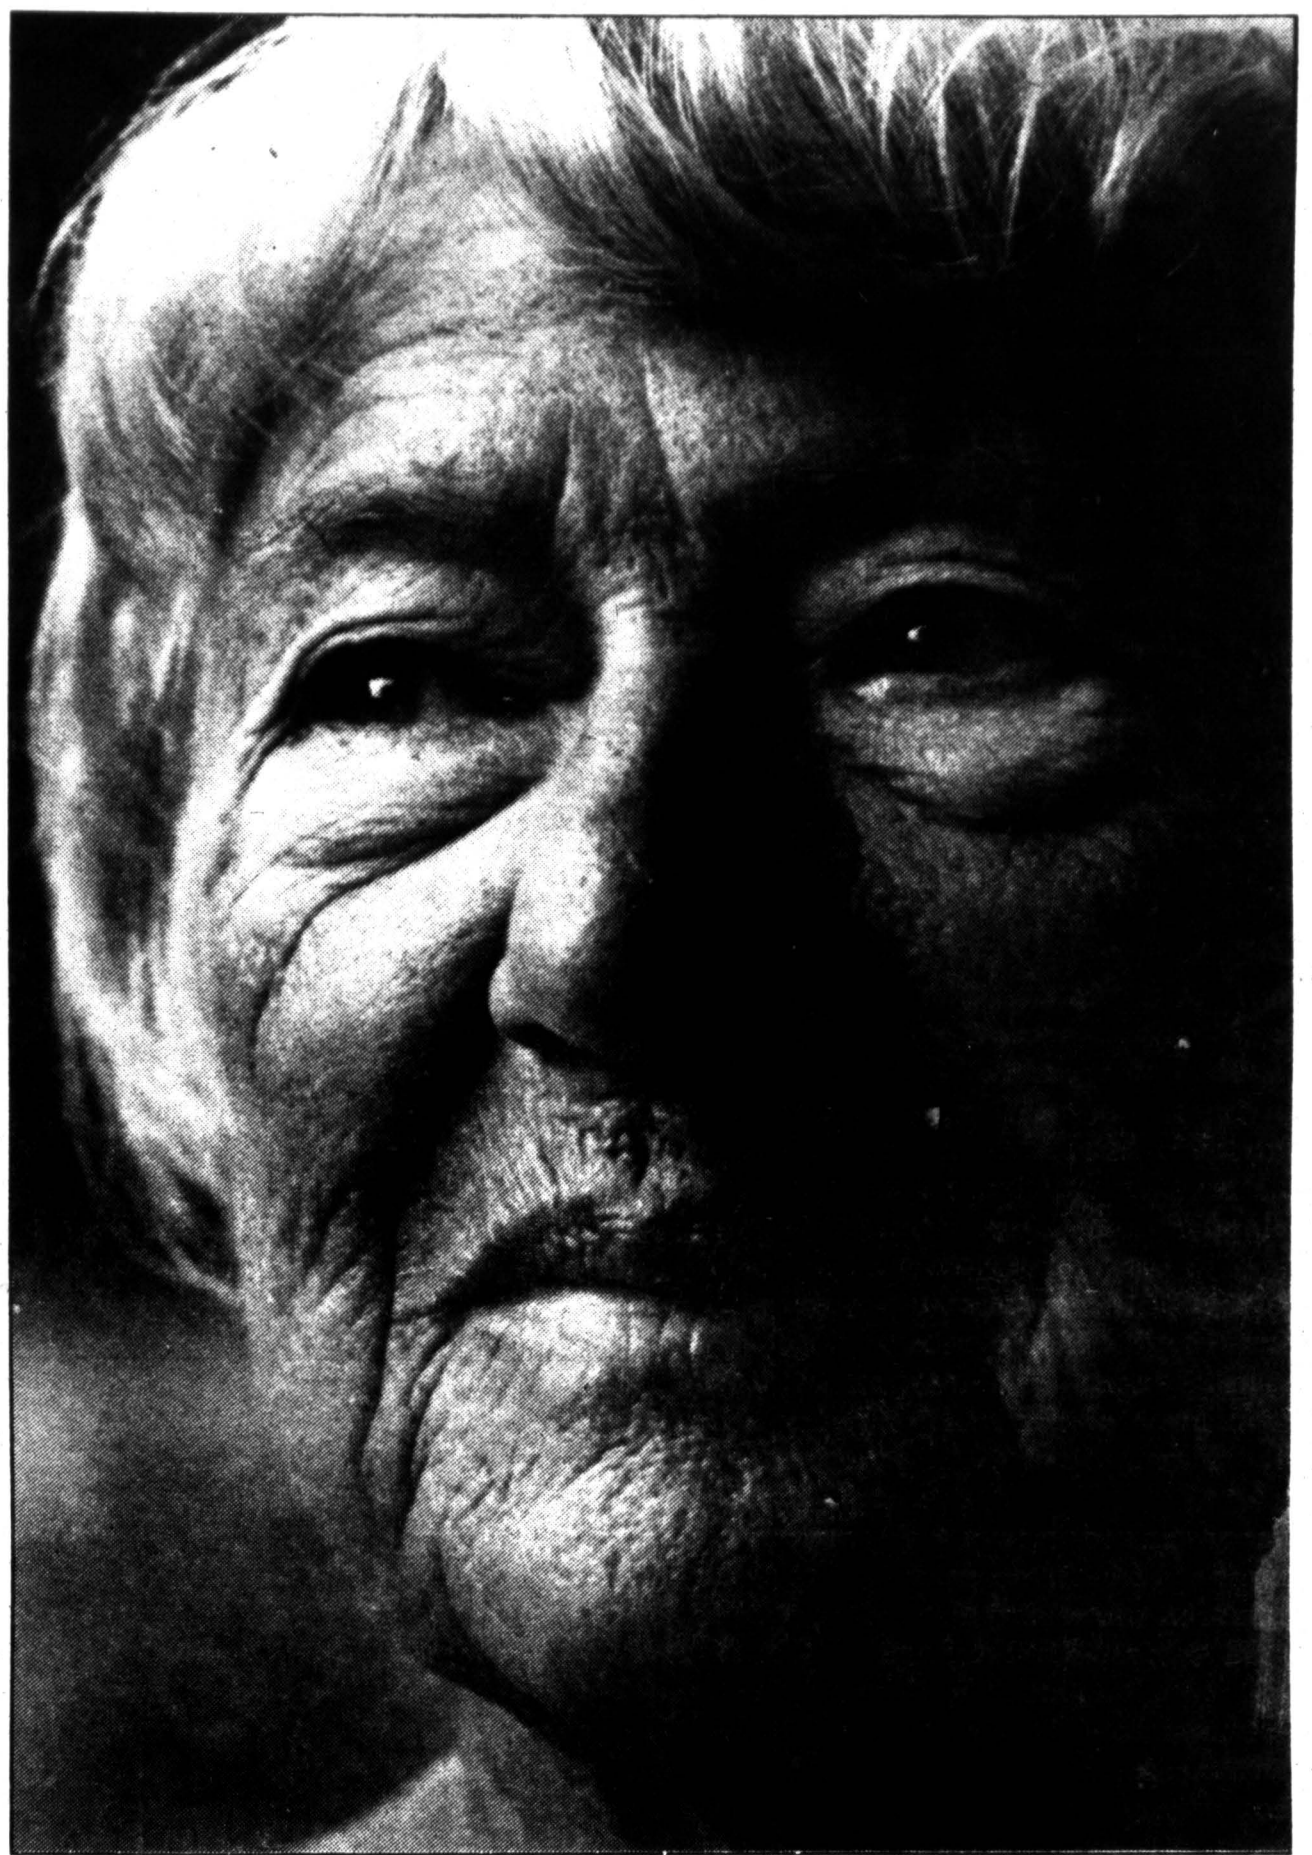

Jay Hannah has lived on the Monterey Peninsula for various periods since 1949. He was educated at California School of Fine Art, San Francisco Conservatory of Music, Stanford University. He says August Gay, Louis Siegfried, William Clapp and Maurice Logan "all contributed to my feeling for color."

Tony Salazar is a commercial photographer home-based in Pacific Grove. He says his "real love is photographing people in their environment." His PGAC exhibit consists of large black-and-white looks at "individuals that I think make a difference in this community." Tony calls the show: Retratos — Portraits.

Meanwhile, PGAC notes that summer arts and crafts workshops for youngsters 6-11 will be offered there by Julie Smith. Classes (10:30 a.m.-12:15 p.m.) will be held on Tuesdays from July 7-28 while the other will be on Thursdays — July 9-30.

Each session costs $30 (materials included). Children may sign up for one or both. An opportunity for individual attention is guaranteed by a class size limit (eight students apiece).

Call PGAC for details on other educational offerings — 375-2208.

The cosmic view of golfing propels musical production

WHILE THE biggest show in golf comes to Pebble Beach very shortly (U.S. Open Championship from June 15-21), a golf show of another sort tees off in Monterey on Friday, June 12.

This show represents all that is glorious about the grand old game — the Heaven-sent cosmic and comic secrets according to The Pro Upstairs, versus all the grief, anguish, humiliation, despair, treachery... "simply all the things that keep you coming back for one more round," according to Ms. de Sod.

Is it too late for the Pro Upstairs to wake up Tony Baxter to the true glory of the game? Or will Daphne de Sod convince our hero that the only road to glory — and making the cut — winds through purgatory? The answer will be revealed on Friday when the show has its world premier in Monterey. YIPS will continue for 21 performances through the U.S. Open week and the remainder of June, and close on July 4. Place: Monterey Playhouse, 425 Washington.

The idea for YIPS came to Golfaholics Anonymous founder Mark Oman, when Jack Lemmon once again failed to make "the cut" at the AT&T Pro/Am. Lemmon's annual rite of suffering and humiliation before millions of equally frustrated golfers made him the perfect role model for Tony Baxter.

Original songs

The production features 13 original songs with music by Stephen Tosh and book and lyrics by Oman, whose popular golf books have sold more than 300,000 copies.

The cast includes such stand-out peninsula performers as Michael Jacobs, Dick Vreeland, Anne Brown Trivette, Richard Conklin and, making a special appearance from her home in New York, the incomparable Desiree de Plume.

For ticket information and reservations call the Golfaholics Anonymous offices, 624-4386.

Arts & Leisure

It's the truth you always suspected about the heaven and hell of golf, the truth of how to lose your handicap without losing your mind and body and soul.

It's the world premiere of Goodbye Mr. Yips — the musical comedy for golf lovers. (And all those innocent family member and friends who have to put up with them.) Here is the story of beloved movie star and confessed golf junkie, Tony Baxter, who after 23 years of not making the cut at the "Pebble Beach Pro/Am" has reached such depths of despair that he's ready to sell his spiked soul to the devil in order to achieve his impossible dream.

Musical combat

Waging war over our hero's golfing soul is no less than God's personal golf pro, The Pro Upstairs, in mortal — and musical — combat against the devil's own seductive super-agent, Ms. Daphne de Sod.

Arts roundup: Summer festival scheduled at Sunset

THE OUTDOOR Summer Art Festival at Sunset Center will be held on Saturday, June 20 and Sunday, June 21.

This year's show will consist of 92 local artists selected by a panel of judges from The Carmel Art Association. The selection judges this year were: Wilda Northrop from Pacific Grove, Joe Tanous of Carmel and Miguel Dominguez from Carmel Valley.

This will be the third annual festival, but the first year for a two-day event. The hours on Saturday will be 10 to 4:30 and on Sunday 11 to 4:30. All artists will be in attendance. Artwork will range from $10 to $1000, all being original and signed. Artists may sell their work framed or unframed.

Media will include watercolor, oil, acrylic, serigraph, lithograph, monoprint, drawing, photography, etching, sculpture, collage, and reverse glass.

Seven categories

Ribbons will be awarded for seven categories: Watercolor, Oil and Acrylic, Mixed Media, Graphics, Sculpture, Photography and Best of Show. Judges from show day will be three different qualified members of the Carmel Art Association.

Some of the well-known local artists in the weekend show are: Watercolors — Mark Farina, Lana Price, Eric Hitchcock, Ron Bean, Sharon Wesner and Miguelin and Alexis Dominguez.

Oil and Acrylic — Della Bradford, Des Matthews, Andres Morillo, Mary Titus, Cyndra Bradford Nelson, Stephen Skence, Emy Ledbetter and Dorothy Saar.

Graphics — Bill Holopoff, Ruth Deoules and Liz Lyons-Friedman.

Sculpture — Suzanne Sable, Peggy Alonas, Ken Weise, Ralph Retherford, Mike Duffy and Elise Chezem.

Photographers — David Williams, Peter McArthur, Fred Chamberlain, Kira Corser, Vic Mitchell and Wei Hsien Chang. These are just a few of the very talented artists in the show.

The theme of the show is "Fine Art at Affordable Prices."

Lunch will be served on the patio by Friends of Sunset. They will offer a variety of sandwiches, salads, desserts and drinks. They will be serving during show hours each day.

Admission to the grounds is free.

Gallery walk

Carmel Business Association announces plans for the First Annual Gallery Walk on Sunday, June 21, from 4-7 p.m.

Exactly 14 of Carmel's finest art galleries have adopted some of Carmel's best restaurants — one apiece — and invite the public to view art works while enjoying complimentary hors d'oeuvres in the galleries.

The gallery/restaurant pairings: Carmel Art Association and Ristorante Le Dolce Vita, Gallerie Blue Dog and Flaherty's Oyster Bar & Grill, George Bleich Gallery and Patisserie Boissiere, Hartley Hill Gallery and The Cottage (Kathy's), Highlands Sculpture Gallery and 5th Avenue Deli, Ledbetter Gallery and China Gourmet, Lynn Lupetti Gallery and Q Point.

Masterpiece Gallery and Pine Inn, Miner's Gallery Americana and Platti's, New Master's Gallery and La Playa/Terrace Grill, Rosamond and Co. and Scandia, Village Artistry and Greek Taverna, Weston Gallery and General Store/Forge, Zantman Gallery and Mediterranean Market.

Informational flyers and maps showing the location of each gallery — as well as the classic Carmel guidebook — are available through Carmel Business Association at 624-2522. The walk is free of charge.

Splendid centuries

It's truly a blockbuster show these days at Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art.

Opening last week was The Splendid Centuries — selected glories from the French schools of the 18th and 19th centuries. These will be on view for almost four months.

Selected from the impressive collection of the Fine Arts Museums, San Francisco, while the Palace of the Legion of Honor undergoes extensive seismic strengthening and renovation, paintings by Manet, Monet, Van Gogh, Degas, Pissaro, Sisley and others are displayed.

For further information, call the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art at 372-5477.

Group show at Carmel's Sunset Center features nine artists

DURING THE month of June, the Marjorie Evans Gallery in Carmel's Sunset Cultural Center is featuring a group show made of works by nine well-known local artists.

Participating in the exhibition are Brenda Morrison, Wilda Northrop, Ed Ward, Miguel Dominguez, Alicia Meheen, Joe Tanous, Tim Sloan, Keith Lindberg and Carol Minou. All are members of the Carmel Art Association.

Brenda Morrison, who works in oils, was born and raised in England, coming to the Peninsula in 1957. Her love of work and life brings a happy outlook to her cheerful still lifes on display in this show.

Watercolorist Wilda Northrop has resided on the Monterey Peninsula since 1974. She likes to paint what she collects, including Oriental rugs, which are integrated into her still-lives hanging in the current show. Northrop is a member of the National Watercolor Society.

Valley resident

Miguel Dominguez paints primarily in watercolor but also works in all media. Growing up in the Salinas Valley and now living in Carmel Valley has enhanced his appreciation for nature. His observations can be appreciated in his landscapes of California and the West Coast.

Edward Norton Ward's media preferences are watercolor and oil. Ward travels extensively throughout the West and Southwest painting landscapes, marines and subjects exciting in color, design and values. A native Californian, he has resided on the Peninsula since 1959. Ward is a charter member of the Society of American Impressionists.

Artist Patricia Meheen moved with her family from Evanston, Illinois, to Carmel where she graduated from high school. Meheen began the serious study of watercolor in 1963. While living in Esfahan, Iran, she painted the local scene and taught watercolor painting at the Iran-American Society. Her paintings are represented in many private collections.

Bronze, too

Joe Tanous paints abstract and surrealist landscapes using oils as his medium. He is a graphics artist and works also in ceramics and bronze sculpture. Tanous has made the Peninsula his home since 1963 and currently lives in Carmel where he has combined teaching with studio work.

Figurative and landscapes are the subject matters preferred by pastel/watercolorist Timothy Sloan, who lives in Monterey. After graduating from the University of Utah in 1965, Sloan went to Ecuador to work with the Peace Corps on a crafts development and marketing project. He has been the recipient of many awards for his works.

Artist Carole A. Minou currently resides in Pacific Grove. Her work at this time is limited to oil painting and drawing in all media. Her focus of interest is still-life, portraits and local landscapes. Minou is a former member of the New Zealand Arts Guild and taught for the Fiji Arts Commission.

Loves color

Keith Lindberg credits his love of color as the major influence in his oil paintings of groups of women and landscapes, which are a part of this exhibition. Lindberg has lived on the Monterey Peninsula since 1960.

The Sunset Cultural Center is located on San Carlos Street between 8th and 10th. The gallery is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. It will also be open on Saturday and Sunday, June 20 and 21, during the Outdoor Summer Art Festival.

REID GALLERIES

Now in our 10th year, we are celebrating, this month, the first anniversary of the New Reid Gallery, dedicated to animation art, also located in The Barnyard, Carmel, at the mouth of Carmel Valley.

One year ago The Walt Disney Company designated the New Reid Gallery a "Preferred Gallery", authorized to display and sell Disney's highly-prized animation art: production cels, limited-edition hand-painted cels, sericals, sculpture and posters. We also have available vintage animation art.

It has been a very successful year for the New Reid Gallery - a year in which the numbers and variety of Disney art on display in the gallery have grown over 300%. And we can obtain, overnight, directly from the Walt Disney Company, any art which they make available to their "Preferred Galleries." We also feature the work of Chuck Jones and all other major animation artists.

We invite you to visit The New Reid Gallery and the companion Reid Gallery. Ask for owner-Johanna Gibson, animation art director-Lynda Harris, Melena Scampa or Elizabeth Wern. Open Monday through Sunday 10:00 am to 6:00 pm. Located in The Barnyard.

Jazz Tides

By John Detro

Awareness

NORTH BAY: At this writing, George the Bushman holds firm. Our nation will not support an international treaty for the protection of plant and animal life. So all those attending the Earth Summit in Rio judge the United States according to his retentive behavior. Well, something much more positive will happen Saturday evening (6/13) at Pacific Cultural Center, Santa Cruz.

Local keyboardist-composer Weber Drummond (from Brazil) stands tall in the lineup of artists who'll present Brazilian music starting at eight o'clock. It's a benefit for the awareness group called Rainforest Futures — $8.50 per at the door.

Joining Drummond: Claudia Villela (fine vocalist who plays piano too), guitarist Ricardo Peixoto, Dave Belove (bass), drummer Celso Alberti, Marquinhos Brasil (varied percussion treatments). These high-level performers promise more than a few "special guests."

Latin beat

On Friday night at Kuumbwa Jazz Center over there (6/12), the Rhythmagics (Latin percussion ensemble) will appear with excellent poet Francisco Alarcon. Eight o'clock kick; $4 per at the door only.

The Kuumbwa headliner Monday evening (6/15) — Either/Orchestra. Founded by saxist Russ Gershon, this 10-piece aggregation draws from Ellington, Monk, R&B, European classical composers, motifs out of the Caribbean. Starts at eight; $10 advance (Ticketmaster) or $12 at the door.

Kuumbwa futures: Yellowjackets (6/16), Billy Cobham (6/22), Wayne Henderson's Next Crusade featuring Wilton Felder (8/10), Kuumbwa Jazz Institute Band (8/12), John Scofield (8/24), McCoy Tyner Trio plus special guest Bobby Hutcherson (8/31).

GOOD NEWS: The 84-year-old jazz giant Lionel Hampton has been released from a New York hospital. Doctors say he's well enough to tour but must stay close to home.

Hamp had to cancel several European appearances when he fell ill about two weeks ago. The diagnosis: heat exhaustion.

THE NATIONAL Writers Union sponsors a poetry reading on Wednesday evening (6/17) at Barbara Murphy's Portofino Coffee House in Pacific Grove. It will be my big fun to appear then and there with the visionary local poet Frank Parker. We both take much inspiration from jazz; I'll include material from my book about the late vocalist Carol Minton. Eight o'clock kick; $3 per.

The Joe Lucido Band continues on Sunday nights at Portofino. No cost. Notable rapport between players and audience — a warm scene.

DOUBLE PLAY: Spokesperson Lauren Wilkins of the Doubletree (as nice as she is smart) comes up with a tasty item. When Monterey Peninsula Jazz Orchestra cooks on Monday nights in the hotel's Brasserie Lounge, KRML Radio staffers tape musical results.

Then each session, Lauren reports, will be broadcast over the Carmel jazz station on Saturday afternoon by Let's Dance host David Kimball. Check with KRML (624-6431) for the specific time.

Kimball serves as a member of the non-profit orchestra's board. He hooked up MPJO honcho Eric Tonn with the Doubletree's Dan Brown.

The three-hour Monday night offerings start at eight o'clock. Three sets — the first being "workshop style" so that the 20 players may get new charts under their belts.

Hot horn

• The guest artist at Doc Ricketts' Lab on Monday evening (6/15) — trumpet and flugelhorn adept Oscar Williams. First set at eight; only $3 apiece at the door.

Oscar has worked with such jazz legends as Art Blakey and Sonny Simmons. In fact, he and the Monday Night Series booker — saxist John Cortes — met many years ago while playing in a Simmons group. (The Cortes Quintet featuring Oscar was signed by Tim Jackson for September's 35th annual Monterey Jazz Festival.)

Multiple instrumentalist Nick Williams will be the guest there on June 22. Nick still hosts his Third Thursday Jazz Series in the Vista Lobos Room of Carmel's Vista Lobos Park. It's a freebie; call 626-9151 to nail down reservations and personnel info.

• At Cibo in downtown Monterey — Weber Drummond and bassist Dennis Murphy (Wednesdays through June), Roger Eddy Band (Thursdays through June), Tocara (Friday and Saturday nights 6/12-13). No cover.

• Also on Monday nights, The Firehouse spotlights Monterey County Jazz Orchestra. Upstairs.

• Monterey Bay Hot Jazz Society announces a Dixieland "dance and social" from 1:30-4:30 p.m. Sunday (6/14) at the Moose Lodge on Canyon Del Rey. Costs $4 (members) or $6 (non). Musicians are invited to sit in with the house band.

• If a San Francisco trip sounds attractive, that city's Community Music Center (544 Capp St.) will offer something special on June 20. The SOMA Quartet will fill that Saturday evening with music of the genius gentleman Thelonious Monk. Ticket data: (415) 647-6015.

The superb SOMA unit: Sandi Poindexter (violin), Dmitri Matheny (flugelhorn), John Heller (guitar), Arlington Houston (bass). Monk loved San Francisco; he even used a photo of himself on the cable car as an album cover.

• Keyboardist James Forkner fronts groups at Bindel's (Saturday night) and Kiewel's in Heritage Harbor (Sunday brunch).

• Sunday brunch, too, at The Clock Garden with jazz keyboardist Dave Clay and Don Roseff on bass.

• The Lodge at Pebble Beach has the long-run Jan Deneau Trio (Terrace Lounge on Friday/Saturday nights).

• Brazilian percussion master Helcio Milito and friends hold forth at Trap's Lounge of Spanish Bay. Wednesday through Sunday nights.

THEY BROUGHT us the film Driving Miss Daisy. Now producers Richard and Lili Fini Zanuck plus director Bruce Beresford plan a biographical flick about blues immortal Bessie Smith.

Announced writer on the project: Horton Foote. He did the script for Beresford's Tender Mercies.

Miss Smith died of injuries sustained in a 1937 car crash. Insiders say the movie will end with her breakthrough recording session (1923).

Meanwhile, Shanachie Records has launched a video series about masters of country blues through the firm's Yazoo subsidiary. Hour-long tapes (three so far) feature intros by Taj Mahal and tunes from such greats as Son House, Bukka White, Lightnin' Hopkins, Mance Lipscomb, Sonny Terry, the Rev. Gary Davis. They originally were filmed by Seattle Folk Society in the 1960s.

Shanachie spokespersons say future releases will celebrate Elizabeth Cotten, Jesse Fuller, Big Joe Williams, Fred McDowell.

MPC offers unique class in children's art during Summer Session

THE CREATIVE Process in Children's Art, the only class of its kind in Northern California, will be offered by the Monterey Peninsula College Art Department during the Summer Session beginning June 15.

The class will meet in Room A-7 on the MPC campus from 9:10 to 11:45 a.m. Mondays and Tuesdays. The six-week course, which ends July 24, offers two units of credit transferable to the California State University and University of California systems. Child care will be available in the MPC Child Care Center.

An excellent class for parents, art students and educators, the course explains how to use a child-centered approach when doing art with children. Students will learn how children use art to communicate and how to interpret children's art.

Constance Gamliere, class instructor, will discuss the creative process, from its start as the "scribbling stage" at age two through adulthood. Students will learn how to do art with the disabled and the gifted. Art therapy also will be covered.

Gamliere, who has a master's degree in art education and 25 years' teaching experience, was a graduate assistant to the author of the textbook used in this course.

"With recent cutbacks in art education, this class is a must for any parent who truly cares about the quality of a child's education. The class is a must for teachers who want to incorporate art into their classroom curriculum," says Gamliere.

Also, the MPC Art Department will offer three courses for its new certificate program on the Cultural History of Monterey County in July during the 1992 Summer Session.

These courses deal directly with the history of art and architecture on the Monterey Peninsula and are offered only during the Summer and Winter sessions.

The short courses, lasting two to three weeks, are:

•Art 200, Visual Arts of the Monterey Peninsula, a one-unit class meeting from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays in Room A-9. The class will begin July 21 and end August 6.

•Art 201, Architecture of the Monterey Peninsula, a one-unit class meeting from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays in Room A-9. The class begins July 20 and ends July 31.

•Art 202, Architectural Tour of the Monterey Peninsula, a one-day course offering a half unit of credit. The tour will begin in Room A-9 at 9 a.m. and end at 5 p.m. A $25 fee will be collected the day of the class to cover the cost of the bus and a catered lunch. Enrollment for the tour class is limited to 45 students. The class will meet Saturday, August 1.

These courses, taught by Rick Janick and Kent Seavy, outline the history of art and architecture of the local area and feature visits to local museums, galleries and important buildings. Normally these courses are offered in the winter session. However, due to illness of an instructor, the classes were canceled last January and are being offered this Summer.

For registration information, call MPC Admissions and Records at 646-4002.

Theater Review

By James P. Kinney

The Voice of the Prairie

"WE'RE IN a time when wooden boxes bring dreams out the sky," marvels awestruck Leon Schwab, the frenetic visionary and pirate drummer for early talk radio in the production of The Voice of the Prairie, currently playing at Hartnell College's Western Stage in Salinas.

Whispers of Garrison Kellor's Lake Wobegone. Echoes of Janis Joplin's "Me and My Bobbi Magee." Prairie is two plays for the price of one: a Perils-of-Pauline adventure about pioneer radio in the early 1920s set against the backdrop of the vast Midwest in tandem with the bittersweet love story of two battered mongrels—all come together to create an intense evening of theater, staged with a careful eye and ear for detail and solidly performed by a trio of incredibly gifted actors.

High-spirited

Davey Quinn, cut adrift at the death of his boozy Irish con-man father meets Frankie, a high-spirited blind girl and rescues her from an empty existence on her family's Midwest farm. The year is 1895. The unlikely pair hits the road together, experiencing adventures good and bad, scrounging food and shelter where they can, riding the rails, bound together by mutual need and a fierce, joyous determination to survive.

Separated after an ugly encounter with a lecherous cretin somewhere in the South, they lose track of each other and stumble and fumble separate ways into somewhat more secure surroundings. He becomes a Nebraska farmer; she becomes a trail-blazing schoolteacher in a small town in Arkansas.

But they never forget each other, nor their magic time of hardship, shared camaraderie and innocence. Davey meets Leon Schwab, a quirky, nervous radio entrepreneur, Jewish, from New York. Leon needs a storyteller to make sounds on the radio sets he is trying to sell at small town hardware stores. Eventually Davey gains fame as an on-mike spinner of honestly told tales, most of them about his long-lost friendship with Frankie.

Leon somehow tracks down Frances Reed, the schoolteacher, and re-unites the pair. Doesn't sound like much in print, does it? But with solid technical support (so lacking in the production of Bleacher Bums reviewed here recently) and riveting ensemble performances by a cast of three, Prairie becomes a memorable theatrical experience.

Multiple roles

Each actor plays multiple roles. Chris Graham, a husky, full-bodied presence, plays Quinn Senior, the grown Davey, Frankie's abusive father, the lecherous farmer and various offstage characters and voices. Moving from drunken whining to self-facing decency, from tongue-tied ineptness to leering depravity, Graham creates with seemingly effortless changes in voice and posture characters of electric diversity.

Micah Epstein, a newcomer to Western Stage, delivers a captivating and lovable Leon Schwab as his main role, alternating him with James, a priggish, asthmatic hypocrite and a dreamy, moon-struck early Davey. His self-deprecating

Oboe solo recital booked

JOHN MACK, principal oboist of the Cleveland Orchestra, will perform a solo recital Tuesday, June 16 in the Hidden Valley Theater in Carmel Valley.

Mack earned his acclaim from his orchestral performances, his commitment to expand the solo role of the oboe, and his dedication as a master teacher.

He was a former principal oboist of the New Orleans and national Symphonies, as well as the Casals and Marlboro Festivals.

The Hidden Valley recital marks Mack's return for the ninth year to present a week-long master class for oboists. In addition, he teaches at the Cleveland Institute and Blossom Festival.

The concert begins at 8 p.m. For further information or reservations, call 659-3115.

Theater Review

New York Jewish accent and mannerisms were so totally consistent and bone-marrow funny that one could feel the audience's palpable delight at his every word and gesture. What a talent!

Finally, Tracy Bryce gave beauty and resonance to the indomitable Frankie, brass to the anything-goes Susie, and depth to the proper, insecure Frances Reed. As did the others, Bryce brings a fine singing voice to move the play's action. Individually, the trio were impressive. Together, offering support and generosity rarely seen to such degree, they infused each scene with a luminous ensemble spirit.

Directors Tom Humphrey and Taft Miller brought it all together. David Parker's set — diverse, inter-locking platforms and steps fronting a backdrop of rolling countryside — enhanced the flow and action. Derek Duarte's lights, now somber, now mottled, now stark and glaring created the mood and time jumps required by the play brilliantly. Creative use of the backdrop warrants special mention. Costumes by Marta Gilbert not only reflected the shifting fortunes of the scenes but made the many onstage changes easy and quick. Take her to dinner, players.

"The magic of the ether is the wave of the future," entones the irrepresible Leon several times in the play. Yes, and to a magical evening of theater. And don't we need that now!

Secular shrine

A Paradise Called Pebble Beach. By Ray A. March and the editors of Golf Digest Books. Golf Digest/Tennis Inc., a New York Times Company, Trumbull CT. 190 pages (scores of color photographs included), and a 12x9-3/4" collector's coffee table title. $40.

ON MONDAY, June 15, from 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m., author Ray A. March will sign copies of his rather amazing book about Pebble Beach. At Books, Inc., on Carmel's Ocean Avenue, between Mission and San Carlos. This will be his first such appearance since advance copies began arriving on the peninsula several days ago.

Ray A. March and the book.

SO LET'S run right at a fact which some may perceive as an issue. Ray oversees the news operation at the weekly journals owned by Bill Brown. I work for Bill and Ray. Is it possible for me to talk about this book with objectivity? Yes; two reasons—

First, Ray may hand back a piece of hard news copy, until it's entirely clear and taut, but he never tells columnists what to say or how to say it. Also, it's a beautifully-made book from every possible viewpoint. Any quibbling that I might undertake (to express independence or my feisty side) would be an immature disservice to followers of this space.

Strong prose

Like a very good coach, Ray shows via the book's text that he can do anything he asks his staffers to accomplish. The prose is scrubbed, wide-ranging, vastly informational. It establishes such a strong sense of Place that one must go to novelists and poets for adequate comparisons — Steinbeck in his Long Valley, Annie Dillard's Tinker Creek, Gary Snyder wandering Japan.

Editors on the project say that Ray met tight deadlines and required very little editing. With the pressure on, March's history of Pebble Beach achieved something powerful — the book lets us see, all in one place, why Pebble undoubtedly is a secular shrine. (A fellow who busted out of prison in the American Southwest was captured on the highway. He could have run toward the Mexican border, but he was determined to reach our turf and "play Pebble" at least once. Truly the stuff of myth....)

Ray's real grasp of what we have here fires up one's imagination. I think the local population was extremely courteous while Pebble Beach came under a series of new owners. If Frenchmen or Koreans tried to buy Harlem's Apollo Theater (another secular shrine), all of Manhattan would come unglued.

But...the book. It offers absolutely superb color photographs by the late William Brooks, Batista Moon Studio, archeologist Gary Breschini, Steve Burton, the late Steve Crouch, Joann Dost, Steve Gann, the late Julian Graham, Pat Hathaway Collection, Michael O'Hollaren, Bill Paullus, Reynold Ruppel, Robert Western, Ray A. March himself. True treasure trove.

Championship golfer Tom Watson contributes a foreword which recaptures his title play at Pebble. Work by book designer Richard Warner (for Leonard Wolfe Design Associates) is no less than a model of layout which reflects a subject's depth and intrinsic delight.

You simply can't go wrong with A Paradise Called Pebble Beach — the perfect gift to yourself or any golf buff within your circle of friends.

OH, THE DAYS DWINDLE DOWN, to a precious few. These precious days, I'll spend with you. A provocative, classic lady who lives with style and grace. Who would delight in one last profound love story that would last for keeps or longer. Smile in my direction, with your heart. Please, be my valentine. I am an irrefragably attractive gentleman in the "Indian Summer" of my years (64) with a Latin heritage. I have a youthful outlook with traditional values. I dream of springs to come. I have a depth and breadth of eclectic interests. The child in me is ebullient, loves to banter, knows how to enjoy life. I am comfortable in all social situations, formal or informal. Come, resonate with me the varied rainbows of emotions and sensitivity. There are so many songs still waiting to be sung.
